ATTEMPT TO CAPITALIZE MISFORTUNE

With the Democratic Party the Bene ficiary and the Water Board the Victim Fails,

L. G. STAIB ELECTED MEMBER

Of the Water Board Last Night at a Joint Session of the City Legislature.

The joint sesion of the two branches of the city council last night was remarkable for the attempt of two members of the Democratic minority, aided and abetted by some of their fellows, to make capital out of the misfortunes of the water board during the past three days of break-downs and water famine It was to the credit of Mayor Sweeney that he concurred in the point that ever if criticism of the board were deserved. the joint session was not the place for airing it. As a matter of fact, citizens generally commend the board, Superintendent Oliver and the employes of the water works department generally for the zeal and ability with which they have negotiated successfully the many path this week, and council would hardly have had the temerity to go on record as a capitalizer of misfortune.

In the second branch there were twenty-one members present and only six absentues, President Maxwell in the chair; in the first branch the members present numbered nine, and the absen-tees seven, Mayor Sweeney presiding.

Mr. Stalb was without opposition elected a member of the water board, and the joint session dissolved.

At 9:10 p. m. council adjourned.

COTTS CASE.

Partial Hearing of the New Trial Motion Yesterday Before Judge Melvin-State Asks for Time to Secure Additional Rebutting Affida-

Marshall county circuit court was in session yesterday at Moundsville, with Judge Melvin on the bench. The arguments for a new trial on the case of the state against Lester McCullom, were made and the case submitted.

The defense in the Cotts case present ed additional affidavits to prove that the jury had been separated and that conversations had been held with diferent members of the jury. An affidavit was also presented to the court that is said to have been made by the man from whom Mr. Cotts alleges he got th alleged forged note. It agrees with the statement made by Cotts during the trial.

The state objected to the affidavit being admitted and asked for further in which to secure additional affidavits in rebuttal. The court granted the request and the case is continued nutil some future date not yet decided upon. However, it is presumed that the case will be finished this week.

RASK GETS ELEVEN RECRUITS

For the United States Marine Service, Who Were Taken to Pittsburgh Tuesday Afternoon.

MARINES ARE DISTINGUISHING

Themselves in China-Recruits Appear to Prefer the Marine Corps to the Regular Army.

Eleven men were enlisted yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant O. H. Rask, of the United States Marine Corps, at the local recruiting office, in the Reilly To an Intelligencer reporter Lleutenant Rask said yesterday after-"I am very agreeably surprised at the way we are getting men in Whieling. They are coming in steadily from all around the country, and they are a splendid lot of men. The trouble in China is attracting many men who are anxious to experience active service. "I was in New York last Sunday and saw the Fifth battallon of marines sat off. They were a fine lot of men. There were four companies of 125 men each They will probably land in China. Among them were some men enlisted by me here at Wheeling.

"True to their old record, the marines have distinguished themselves in China already, the latest feat being the storming of a fort and the capture of thirteen large guns, rifles and ammunition by a mere handful of ten American marine and twenty Welsh Fusiliers under the United States Marine Corps.

"I am now back at my old station in Pittsburgh, Colonal Russell, having ra-lieved me at Philadelphia. This will enable me to visit Wheeling twice a week. Besides I may have offices at Youngstown, O., and Claveland, O., as those places have been recommended by Colonel Russell.

Many Recruits.

"Recruits are coming in very fast. During the past ten days I have enlisted ninety-two men. Our service is very popular with the people. In the townwhere ther are army recruiting offices we always get more men than the

"The Marine Corps is fast being filled up. The full strength is about 6,000 men and we now need only about 750 to fill the full quota.

There are rumors around Washington to the effect that 1,000 more marines will be sent to China soon. The reason for this is that the marine is so adaptable to the service there. He is just as much at home on sea as he is on land and he can be used as an infantry mad or artillery man. He is an expert in signalling and does not look dubious to work as a sapper. As Rudyard Kipling has it:

There inn't a thing on the face o' the earth the beggar don't know nor do; You can leave 'im at night on a bald man's 'ead to paddle 'is own canoe.

Since he has been here last, Lieut. Rask has been promoted to a first lieutenancy. This was brought about by a recent order of the secretary of the navy, which promoted twenty-four first lieutenants to captains and forty second lieutenants to first lieutenants. The men enlisted yesterday were sent away to the navy yard at Philadelphia # at once. Those Who "Listed."

The eleven who have enlisted in the Marine Corps at the local recruiting office and departed for Pittsburgh with Lieutenant Rask yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, are the following William Sherman Penn, of Hendrys burg. Ohio.

Frank Mahan Russell, of Pittsburgh

Alvin H. McMasters, of Bellaire, O. Harry S. Ferguson, of Wheeling.

William A. Cranford, of Clifton, W. George Morris Young, of Wheeling, Charles Mason Conley, of Beeler Sta-tion, W. Va., late of the First West Virginla Volunteers.

Thomas H. Raymond, of San Monles, California.

Elmer Denham, of Barton, Ohio. John Albecht, of Summerton, Pa. These were pronounced as fine a lot of men as the recruiting officers had ever secured, both Lleutenant Rask and Cornoral Boyer joining in this estimate They were recruited here between July 16 and 23.

THE RAILROADS.

The Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph claims it is in a position to state authoritatively that the Baltimore & Ohio ratiroad has secured the majority of the preferred stock of the Pittsburgh estern railroad, and within three months the Baltimore & Ohio rallroad will assume control of the property This information comes from one of the high officials of the Battimore & Ohio railroad and there is no question about the authenticity of it. For several years past the Baltimore & Ohio has been trying to secure the control of the road, although they have a traffic arrangement which is said to be satisfactory. As is well known there have been several attempts to sell 'the road under the hammer by the holders of the bonds and the Baltimore & Ohio had most of the bonds. The road was up for sale a number of times, there was always a hitch and it is said the hitch came from the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio did not own a majority of the preferred stock. For a long time they have been after the control of this stock, but they did not secure it until Monday.

It is said that by October 1 the Baltimore & Ohio people will have control road and that the securing of the majority of the preferred stock will do away with the necessity of a public The Pittsburgh & Western railroad is in excellent shape and has been on the upward course ever since Thomas M. King was appointed receiver When he took hold of the road it could hardly be called a railroad. There were curves, tunnels and all sorts of thinks that made it the laughing stock of the fracture of his skull, country. Mr. King started to work on it and for years he kept at it until today it is one of the best rallroads in the country. .

Eastbound Freights.

Under the new pooling arrangement the Erie road carried more grain to the east last week than any other line. The Grand Trunk secured the second largest share and the Nickel Plate the third. The Pennsylvania's Fort Wayne line secured the largest share of the line secured the largest share of the flour traffic, but the Baltimore & Ohio had an unusually heavy traffic. The provision business was quite equita-bly divided, the Wabash getting the largest share and the Fort Wayne line the smallest. From the previous week there was a decrease in grain and pro-vision shipments, but an increase in flour traffic.

Oil on Roadbeds.

The first western railroad to use crude oil on its roadbeds to prevent dust flying and secure other desirable results is the Chicago & Alton. In the dustlest places along the road, over a combined distance of about seventy five miles, the oil has been applied, and if the test is satisfactory the entire roadbed will be olied. A low grade of crude oil is used, and 2,000 gallons are required for each mile of track. It is claimed that amount of oil will keep the track free from dust and weeds for one year. Many eastern railroads have experimented with oil on the roadbed, some liking it and others discontinuing its use. Regarding the use of oil or roadbeds, President Tuttle, of the Bos-Regarding the use of oil on ton & Maine, says: "We have had great success with the use of on or great success with the use or on un residium on our roadbeds, and have contracted for 1,000,000 gallons for use on the roads this year. The materia is not inflammable, and in connection The material is not inflammable, and in connection with the burning of coke on our pas-senger engines in place of soft coal makes travelling conditions almost perfect. Under our system of oiling the readbed we have to go over the road once a year for three years, after which time the readbed is in perfect condition, so far as dust and overgrowth is concerned, and requires no further attention. It cost us $200 a further attention. It cost us $200 a mile of double track for each oiling, or a total cost of $600 a mile of double track for three years' attention, but I believe this expenditure is more than offset by the lack of het boxes caused by sand getting in the bear-ings, the labor for removing weeds and other growth, etc., not taking into consideration the greater comfort to passengers."
